Greece will not take Cyprus; it remains to be seen whether she will have to take hemlock.

King George of Great Britain is visiting in France, but he is keeping on his own side of the dead line.

'Tis the season of the ripening melon. Out in Detroit they cut one of the fruit for $18,000,000 on October 25. No need to ask the variety.

Death lurked at another grade crossing in Rutland county last Tuesday. If we don't hurry up and eliminate our grade crossings, Vermont will show an actual loss in population by 1920.

At the rate the price of potatoes is going up, the Vermont farmer having a good yield on five acres of land would find a good-sized income awaiting him. Unfortunately, however, high prices and big yields rarely go together.

It may be reckoned a good tourist season in Vermont when one hotel is able to report that 2,500 automobile parties registered at its office during the summer and early fall. Such a great amount of business furnishes incentive enough for every hotel keeper in Vermont to begin now to lay plans for a big season in 1916.

The hand of foreign-born people, who are now citizens of the United States, organized to wipe out the hyphen has a tremendously important work to perform and work which will be very hard to accomplish. The result will be worth all they put into it, however. The move is timely, indeed.

We notice that Congressman Frank L. Greene displayed his usual urbanity when the Vermont suffragists paid him a visit to set forth their claims, even thanking them for the opportunity to hear their views. Indeed, if we mistake not, the suffragists found Vermont's four congressmen about as polite as they find them anywhere.

Twice within a week Vermont people (and in each case the accident took place in Lamoille county) have been shot because of the rather hazardous practice of handling a gun by the muzzle instead of by the way the manufacturer meant it to be handled. Which shows that one of the first lessons in handling a deadly weapon has been forgotten. The trigger end of a gun is a far safer place to be in.

The United States government purchased a site for a federal building in the city of Seattle, paying a stiff price for it. Now the site is awash under eight feet of sea water. Whereast the government might be pardoned for weeping salty tears. Good judgment in buying building sites for the government is just as desirable as if individuals were making purchases for themselves; and there should be keen inspection of the present conditions and allowance for possible changes. To spend $175,000 of the government's money and have the purchase turn out to be part of the Seattle harbor is a serious reflection on somebody.

Walter W. Husband, formerly well known as a newspaper worker in Vermont, later a congressional private secretary and still later connected with the United States immigration commission, has just been elected an associate editor of Labor Gazette, a publication just started in Washington, D. C. Editor Husband (the title looks natural) has ample ability and experience to fit him for the work, and, in addition, has gained valuable insight into labor conditions through close study of immigration problems confronting the United States. His large number of friends in Vermont, both those inside and those outside of the newspaper profession, will extend their hearty congratulations to him over his election to the position and at the same time will felicitate the Labor Gazette on securing the services of so able a man.

Vermont horticulturalists took a prominent, if not the leading, part in the apple exhibition at the New England fruit show in Boston during the present week. Their displays of apples being considered very good indeed. Moreover, it is stated that if some of the exhibitors from Vermont had been more expert in the art of packing the fruit even more prizes would have been awarded to Vermont. In the matter of packing fruit Vermont has not yet acquired that knack which characterizes the efforts of west-

REASONABLE CAREFULNESS BY PEDESTRIANS.

The fatal accident to a small boy from an automobile running in a Northfield street Tuesday seems to have been unavoidable, and the driver of the machine is likely to be absolved from blame inasmuch as his car was proceeding slowly at the time. The conditions were quite similar to dozens of other cases constantly noted in every place where motor vehicles are being operated; small children are extremely heedless and, in some instances, absolutely foolhardy. Heedlessness seems to have been the cause of the death of the youth at Northfield. In other cases children have become so foolhardy that they will run into the middle of the road and stand there until the motor vehicle, if running slowly, is within a few feet of them and then trust to the swiftness of their legs and the watchfulness of the driver to save them from being run down. If the youngsters should trip and fall beneath the wheels of the car, there would be those who would consider the driver of the motor vehicle responsible, whereas the blame was not his at all. Parents can do much to stop the practice and prevent accidents by giving their children some sharp advice as to the danger of running ahead of motor vehicles. And, too, they can help by warning the children never to run into the road without taking a glance in both directions.

Why He Retreated.

"Why did you retreat?" demanded the general who was directing the sham battle. "You had the other side outnumbered and technically defeated."

BETHEL

Robert E. Bundy Held as a Spy Suspect in St. Stephen, N. B.

Robert E. Bundy, when conversing recently at St. Stephen, N. B., was arrested by a plain clothes detective on suspicion of being a German spy, but after an examination of about 15 minutes was released, a scar on his upper lip not in the description of the person wanted and papers found in his pockets signed by Bethel officials, declaring the bearer to be an upright American citizen, probably secured his release. Mr. Bundy is expected home in a few weeks, after spending several months, mostly in Maine.

The first of the expected secondary cases of chicken pox was reported yesterday.

This being the 80th anniversary of Miss Adeline Chamberlain, several of her friends called upon her. She was a witness of the arrival of the first passenger train in Bethel, and with her sister and others, went through the cars.

At a regular meeting of Daniel Lillie Woman's Relief corps, No. 85, held in I. O. O. F. hall Tuesday evening, there was a full attendance. The corps was visited by Mrs. Helen Bonnett of Concord, department inspector. The full ritual was exemplified in a very creditable manner. The color bearers were praised as the best that had been seen made and many helpful suggestions were given by Mrs. Bonnett.

Alva Mack of Reed's Ferry, N. H., has been visiting his sisters, Mrs. C. H. Dwyer, and Mrs. H. W. Davis.

Miss Margaret Bartlett left this morning on a trip to California, where she will visit relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester L. Denmore and their daughter, Martha, of Concord, N. H., have been visiting at C. E. Claffin's.

The junior class gave a Halloween party at Cushing hall last evening. There was a large attendance.

Most of the village teachers are attending the state convention at Rutland. They were joined by Miss May Campbell, a former teacher in the high school, who is now teaching at Orleans, and who came in time to attend the Halloween party.

Annie Marshall has been appointed captain and Nan Kelcher, manager of the grammar school girls' basketball team.

Mrs. Lillian Sanborn of Rochester, N. H., is visiting at Mrs. Alice Bartlett's. Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Whitney of Brattleboro were at the Bascom house yesterday.

RANDOLPH

Mrs. Jennie Unwin of Somerville, Mass., is being entertained by her brother, W. C. Slack, and his daughter, Miss Hazel Slack.

Miss Jennie Bell of Walden arrived here on Wednesday for a few days' stay with Mrs. E. H. Mason.

Mrs. G. A. Chedel went to Woodstock Wednesday for a several days' stay with Mr. Chedel's aunt, who resides there, and is not in good health.

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Chedel received news of the birth of a daughter to Dr. and Mrs. Charles Chedel, in Portland, Conn., on Wednesday, the child being their granddaughter.

Harry Morton of Hyde Park, Mass., arrived here on Wednesday to join his wife and son, who have been here a week with relatives, and they will pass the time here till Sunday, when they will return to their home.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ordway of Boston were the guests of their son, Ray Ordway, from Friday to Tuesday, making the trip here by automobile.

Mrs. Fay Burnell of Woodstock has come to pass a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Manchester. Mrs. Emma McIntyre has closed her house on Randolph avenue for the season, and went to Burlington Wednesday, where she is to pass the winter with her daughter, Mrs. Guy London. Mrs. McIntyre's brother, M. H. Miller, is at present more comfortable, with a reasonable hope of improving somewhat.

Mrs. Carrie Sanborn of Sterling and her daughter, Mrs. White of Arlington, Mass., were the guests on Wednesday of Mrs. Flint at the home of Lyman Hutchinson.

Miss Maud Wiley, a student in the high school, was taken ill on Tuesday, and the next day was very ill with a high temperature. Dr. Russell was summoned, but it has not yet been determined what the cause of her illness is.

The high school teachers are all in Rutland this week at the teachers' convention, and the schools are not in session. Miss Clark, the teacher in the training department, went on Tuesday.

Miss Nellie Blossom, after a few days' stay with her mother, Mrs. George Hatch, left Tuesday, and after a few weeks will enter the Lowell, Mass., business college for a course of study.

Mrs. E. A. Banister and Mr. and Mrs. Heber Holman, Jr., have purchased of L. P. Thayer of Morrisville, his house on the Highlands. Mr. Thayer was in town Monday to close the trade, and the papers are now ready to sign. The family expect to move there in about a month if not sooner.

MONTPELIER

Mrs. Mary Monahan Died This Morning After Operation.

The death of Mrs. Mary Glinney Monahan, wife of James Monahan of 31 Court street, occurred at 4:50 o'clock this morning at the home of her sister, Mrs. James Healy of 33 Court street. Since an operation performed last June, Mrs. Monahan has been in ill health and five days ago her condition became serious. The deceased was born in Montpelier, July 21, 1872, the daughter of John and Elizabeth Glinney. She had always resided in this city and six years ago was married to Mr. Monahan, the marriage taking place Aug. 17, 1909.

She is survived by her husband and father and by one sister, Mrs. James Healy, and one brother, John J. Glinney, water superintendent.

She was a member of St. Augustine's church and belonged to the ladies' auxiliary of the A. O. H.

The funeral will be held Saturday morning at 9 o'clock from St. Augustine's church with Rev. J. P. Long officiating with burial in the Catholic cemetery.

A prayer service for Leslie E. Reed, whose death occurred Tuesday morning, was held at 8:30 o'clock this morning at the home of his nephew, W. B. Richardson, 94 College street, Rev. Lewis C. Carson, pastor of the Church of the Messiah officiating. The remains were taken to Waitfield, where the funeral was held this afternoon and burial was made.

E. H. Prouty of 6 Pearl street left last evening for Detroit, Mich., called by the serious illness of his brother. He received a telegram yesterday afternoon informing him that his brother was failing rapidly.

Mr. and Mrs. George Haseltine went to-day to Burlington for a few days' visit with relatives.

Miss Rose Lucia and Miss Caroline Griswold of the public schools, accompanied by Mrs. Mason S. Stone, went to-day to Rutland to attend the school teachers' association convention.

CURRENT COMMENT

Bravery Between Barre and Montpelier.
The man who would take a ride in some of the jitneys which play between the capital and Barre, would take a chance on the firing line in Europe.—Montpelier Argus.

The President's Wooing.

Doubtless the president and the woman whom he has asked to become the first lady of the land are being very much exploited by the alert news-gatherers. Naturally the doings of the president and all who are closely associated with him become of public interest and are public property. "In that fierce light that beats upon a throne," says Tennyson. And likewise upon the seat occupied by a president. The president must know that he is in the "spotlight" at all times and during this season of his second mating he is more than ever "the observed of all observers." He shows no disposition to play the part of the bashful wooer. On the contrary the man who so recently asked the nation to mourn with him now seems disposed to give it every opportunity to share in the new joy that is his. Indeed, there is a possibility of his going "from grave to gay, from lively to severe," and carrying the whole nation with him. Doubtless it is a credit to him that as a lover he seems to be addressing himself to his purpose with an ardent, almost impatient thoroughness that would even befit a youthful wooer of only half his years. But it is just possible that even a president should cogitate at times to the effect that although "love is blind," the cool-blooded, level-headed onlookers, unfretted by affection's golden fire, retain to a normal degree their power of seeing straight. Everybody is glad the president is happy. But as the good Bishop Hall once remarked, "Moderation is the silken string running through the pearl chain of all the virtues."—Boston Herald.

The Solace boot is almost certain relief for tired feet, cramped toes, enlarged joints. It's much more roomy than usual over the ball of the foot, but retains the narrow heel, and is so cleverly designed that it doesn't look wide.

It fits without a wrinkle over the instep, and has ample toe-room. It comes in comfortably soft dull kid leathers at $4.00.
